Beware Of The Sorcerer's Medicine

By Greg Ciola

It's estimated that over 60% of the population is taking at least one pharmaceutical drug every day for a diagnosed medical condition. If pharmaceutical drugs were truly the answer to our medical maladies, then why would a patient have to remain on them for the rest of their life? And once a person begins a drug regimen, it usually leads to them being put on more and more pills. Where are the success stories of pharmaceutical drugs curing all these ills where a person can get off of their drugs and live a long, healthy, vibrant life? The sad truth is modern drug based medical treatments for "symptoms" has completely failed the American people.

Instead of all the wonderful success stories, we hear more horror stories of medical mal-practice, overdosing, debilitating side effects and in a number cases even death. Just take a walk into any hospital or nursing home and see for yourself what this "so-called" medical panacea has done. Many of the people in these places are drugged up zombies. Could it be that there is a darker side to pharmaceutical medicine? Could it be that the pharmaceutical industry represents an ancient priesthood that practices sorcery and witchcraft on an unwitting populace? The evidence is quite convincing if you take some time to do research about it.

When I delved into it further I discovered some shocking evidence that I felt compelled to share. My first revelation actually came from the word "Sorcery" found in the 18th chapter of the book of Revelation. Verse 23 says: "For by thy sorceries were all nations deceived."

I thought to myself, that's a pretty interesting statement. What is this passage trying to say?

I then took out my Strong's Concordance and looked up the derivation of the word sorcery. Much to my surprise it originates from the Greek word Pharmakeia. The definition the concordance gives for this Greek word is medication, magic, sorcery, witchcraft. The very next word in the Greek is Pharmakeus derived from Pharmakon. This word means (a drug, i.e. spell-giving potion); a druggist ("pharmacist") or poisoner, i.e. a magician: - sorcerer.

I couldn't believe my eyes. The English words pharmaceutical and pharmacy are both derived from these ancient Greek words. Here we have one of the largest industries in the world and the very name of it is derived from Greek words that mean sorcery, magic, witchcraft, spell-giving potion and poisoner.

Then I continued on and read the very next verse in Revelation and my understanding of these scriptures took on a whole new meaning once I knew the correct interpretation of the word sorcery.

"And in her (mystery Babylon) was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of all that were slain upon earth." (Rev. 18:24)

So in full context this passage is saying: "For by thy sorceries were all nations deceived. And in her was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of all that were slain upon earth."

Is there a connection to these slain and the sorceries (pharmaceuticals) of the whore of Babylon? Could these passages be God's way of warning His people of the potential dangers of pharmaceutical medicine? It's hard to draw any other conclusion.

The Bible warns us to be watchful because Satan comes disguised as an angel of light. Is it possible that pharmaceutical medicine has been disguised as a great benefit and blessing to mankind when in reality it may be a poisonous spell-giving potion created through sorcery that has the potential to be harmful, and in a number of cases, even fatal?

The great prophetic book of Isaiah deals with this great whore of Babylon and the judgment coming upon her. The key words in this passage are sorceries and enchantments.

"Sit thou silent, and get thee into darkness, O daughter of the Chaldeans (Babylon): for thou shalt no more be called, The lady of kingdoms. Therefore hear now this, thou that art given to pleasures, that dwellest carelessly, that sayest in thine heart, I am, and none else beside me; I shall not sit as a widow, neither shall I know the loss of children: But these two things shall come to thee in a moment in one day, the loss of children, and widowhood: they shall come upon thee in their perfection for the multitude of thy sorceries (pharmaceuticals?), and for the great abundance of thine enchantments (drugs?)." (Isaiah 47:5, 8, 9)

In the prophetic book of Nahum we read of God's impending judgment on another woman symbolically referred to as the city of Nineveh. Look at how the following passages from Nahum correspond to these passages. Take into consideration the word witchcraft.

"Woe to the bloody city! It is full of lies and robbery; the prey departeth not... Because of the multitude of the whoredoms of the well-favored harlot, the mistress of witchcrafts (pharmaceuticals?), that selleth nations through her whoredoms, and families through her witchcrafts (pharmaceuticals?). Behold, I am against thee, saith the LORD of hosts; and I will discover thy skirts upon the face, and I will show the nations thy nakedness, and the kingdoms thy shame." (Nahum 3:1, 4, 5)

All throughout history medicine and mind-altering drugs have been an integral part of black magic, witchcraft and sorcery. Apparently through drugs and medicine the mind and body can be opened up to demonic influence and even possession. Under the right spells cast by witches, magicians and sorcerers with the use of drugs the wall of division between these two paradigms can be broken down. This may explain why a large majority of elderly people on high doses of pharmaceutical medication claim to see things and hear voices. Have Satan's hoard of demons been released from the pit of hell to inflict death and carnage on the world by possessing people's minds and bodies through the use of pharmaceutical drugs and vaccines? Many of the people responsible for committing brutal mass murders in recent years were on powerful anti-depressants and a cocktail of pharmaceutical drugs.

Many of you are probably familiar with the tragedy where a mother from Houston drowned her five children in a bathtub. The children ranged in age from 6 months to 7 years. This demonically possessed woman systematically took these children one by one and held their heads under water until they drown. Reuters ran a story on this tragedy and quoted the husband who said: "I'm supportive of her because on the one hand I know she killed our children...but on the other I know that the woman here is not the woman who killed my children." The husband further elaborated: "She had her psychotic side effects with her depression that led her to do this. She loved our kids and anybody that knew her knew that."

After this tragedy it came out that Andrea Yates was on a heavy-duty pharmacological cocktail mixture of anti-depressants. According to a story that appeared in Insight On The News: "During a two year period, Yates was prescribed four extremely potent mind-altering drugs intended to help her through two episodes of severe depression that began after the birth of their fourth child." During Yates' first episode, she began to take Haldol, Effexor and Wellbutrin. After their fifth child and her second episode, she was put on another round of drugs that consisted of Effexor and Remeron. "Yates' husband has said that his wife was given Effexor at a dosage nearly twice the recommended maximum limit. Just days before the murders, the Effexor was for some reason reduced to just slightly more than the recommended maximum dosage of 225 mg per day and the Remeron was added."

Ancient Witchcraft And Modern Pharmaceuticals

It's interesting to note that in the Middle Ages witchcraft was almost exclusively practiced by women. In Europe, the sick often consulted witches who would brew up special potions of various herbs and drugs for their maladies. A great resource and reference book by Barbara Walker titled "The Woman's Encyclopedia Of Myths And Secrets" covers this past history in more detail. In the section on witchcraft Walker says:

"Up until the 15th century, women's 'charms and spells' were virtually the only repository of practical medicine. Churchmen avoided doctoring, on the ground that all sickness came from demonic possession, and the only permissible cure was exorcism... In pre-Christian Gaul and Scandinavia, medicine was entirely in the hands of women. Even in the Christian era, the village wise-women was still every peasant's family doctor. Paracelsus said witches taught him everything he knew about healing. Dr. Lambe, the Duke of Buckingham's famous 'devil', was said to have learned the secrets of medicine by consorting with witches... It wasn't unusual for the witches' healing charms to be preferred to those of the church, or for the two to be regarded as identical in essence... What the distinction between sorcery and witchcraft boiled down to was that men could practice magic, women couldn't."
